1. CAMPBELL HALL

Atlanta philanthropist John Bulow Campbell helped bring the seminary from Columbia, SC, and ensured that it had a permanent home in Decatur. Mr. Campbell gave the funds for what is now the seminary’s administration building as a tribute to his mother, Virginia Orme Campbell.

4. W. FRANK HARRINGTON CENTER

An acclaimed preacher, church and civic leader, Frank Harrington was a Columbia alumnus and pastor of Peachtree Presbyterian Church, in Atlanta, for nearly three decades. This facility houses the offices for The Center for Lifelong Learning.

5. VILLAGE APARTMENTS

Five buildings comprise 38 apartments, primarily for student families with children. The size of the units range from one to four bedrooms.

New Residence Hall

6. NEW RESIDENCE HALL (NRH)

Opened in 2009, this is the seminary's first "green" building, and the first in Decatur to achieve LEED* gold certification from the U. S. Green Building Council. The facility includes studio and one-, two- and four-bedroom apartments; a recreation/workout area accessible to students, faculty, and staff; a community kitchen with indoor and outdoor seating and fireplaces; and a laundry area for residents.

7. FLORIDA HALL

This student residence hall includes suites and single rooms. Major funding for the original building was provided through congregations in the Synod of Florida of the Presbyterian Church U. S.

8. RICHARDS CENTER

J. McDowell Richards became the seminary's president in 1932, during the early, difficult years following the move from the original campus in Columbia, SC. During the nearly four decades of his leadership, Columbia experienced substantial growth. The Richards Center includes the seminary's main dining hall, the Refectory, faculty offices and classrooms, as well as smaller dining rooms and lounges.

9. OLDENBURG QUADRANGLE

The seminary's central quadrangle is named in honor of President Emeritus Douglas Oldenburg, who served from 1987 – 2000. The "quad" is a gathering place for community picnics, impromptu games of Ultimate Frisbee and touch football, and conversations on the benches placed around its perimeter.

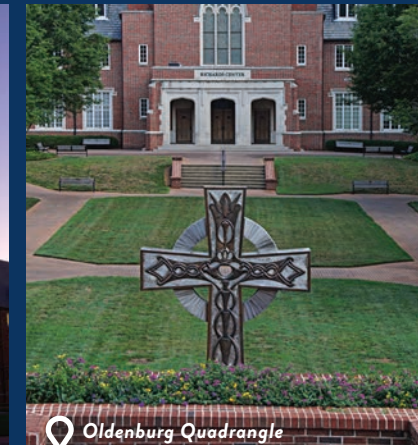

10. VERNON S. BROYLES JR. LEADERSHIP CENTER

The seminary's high-tech academic facility, dedicated to the education of imaginative, resilient leaders for God's Church, honors the memory of Vernon S. Broyles Jr., who served for many years as pastor of North Avenue Presbyterian Church in Atlanta. Opened in early 2012, the center incorporates the 80-year-old Simons-Law building, formerly a student residence hall, which was recycled and renovated. This is Columbia's second "green" building and is LEED* gold certified from the U.S. Green Building Council.

 Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Green Building Rating System™ is the nationally accepted benchmark for the design, construction, and operation of high performance green buildings.*
