

CONNECTOR
POSITION DESCRIPTION

GENERAL DESCRIPTION: The Connector works collaboratively with the Admissions Team to connect with prospective students and help them discern calls to ministry and/or theological education. The Connector uses all available resources to create programs and initiatives that establish and nurture strong relationships with prospective students, community leaders, and influencers. The position reports to the Director of Admissions & Recruitment.

ESSENTIAL RESPONSIBILITIES:

1. Develop, implement, and evaluate programs that foster connections with prospective students and provide them with resources for discernment and vocational exploration.
2. Create and deploy creative programs and strategies to connect with minoritized and underrepresented student populations.
3. Craft and coordinate programs to engage youth and young adults, discerning a call to ministry in the Presbyterian Church (USA) and connecting them with the seminary.
4. Organize and lead at least one “Columbia Road Trip” per semester to allow prospective students to experience Columbia first-hand.
5. Plan and execute a robust annual connection plan (i.e., recruitment plan) that includes, but is not limited to, extensive travel, prospective student phone calls, prospect data management, virtual recruitment and/or discernment events, social media engagement, etc.
6. Discover, register for, and attend regional events that will produce new prospective student connections and/or offer opportunities to deepen relationships with existing student connections.
7. Identify, create, and strengthen relationships with pastors, campus ministers, community leaders, and other student influencers who work with feeder colleges, congregations, and other strategic partners.
8. Respond promptly to new connections and prospective student inquiries – typically within 24 hours (one business day).
9. Connect via phone with at least five prospective students daily to assist them in their discernment.
10. Advise prospective students through admissions processes using all appropriate communication channels.
11. Host and lead recurring formation groups with prospective students.
12. Maintain comprehensive records to assist with identifying strategic opportunities and adhere to company standards of professionalism, confidentiality, and integrity.
13. Cultivate and constantly improve intercultural competence to effectively engage prospective students and strategic partners and effectively bridge differences.
14. Other duties as requested.
